

Cognitive Intervention Training Announcement

We look forward to coming to your location and sharing ACCI's evidence-based cognitive life skills self-directed learning programs with you. Each officer will receive a sample life skills course and a program guide. We will also demonstrate our user-friendly web-based referral system Lifeskills Link. To make best use of our time together, we recommend that you create your Lifeskills Link account now. Go to www.lifeskillslink.com and click on the red button that says "New Judicial Users Start Here" and follow the on screen instructions.

The objective of this training is to provide community correction officers with an evidence-based program that helps them efficiently address their client's top tier dynamic criminogenic risk factors.

TRAINING TOPICS

Introduction and brief history of ACCI - Since 1975 ACCI has been actively developing cognitive life skills curriculum and programs.

Overview of Self-Directed Learning Program - The structure, time lines and details will be outlined.

Using www.lifeskillslink.com - An introduction of the technology and tools.

Discuss cases that are appropriate for ACCI's program. We are going to answer the question, "What types of clients should I refer to this program".

Using a "pro-social" coach. - Learning and changing most often occurs within a positive relationship.

Overview of Cognitive Restructuring - ACCI's cognitive model will be demonstrated.

Overview of ACCI's Catalog of Courses and subconscious reprogramming - Both hard copy and eLearning course samples will be presented.

Recommendations - How to get the best possible results for you and your clients with ACCI's Programs.

Mr. Trevor Lloyd is the President of American Community Corrections Institute (ACCI), a national, evidence-based provider of cognitive life skills courses and programs. Mr. Lloyd earned a Masters of Science in Industrial/Organizational Psychology from Alliant International University (San Diego, CA Campus) in 2003. He is a certified Arbinger Facilitator (an international peace building organization).

He has worked as a family therapist with extensive experience in staff development. As ACCI's President, he has presented to and trained many different groups of criminal justice professionals on how to successfully use the science of cognitive restructuring and criminogenic to effectively reduce recidivism rates. Mr. Lloyd brings over 19 years of experience in the behavioral health industry to his current position. He is now providing his leadership and expertise at ACCI to provide innovative, affordable, and evidence-based solutions for the criminal justice system.